HOW TO FIGHT CHOLERA

Consul Mason's Report on the Best Preventive Measures.

Chlorodyne the Most Effective Drug for Immediate Use.

A New Plague in Portugal That Kills Quicker Than Cholera.

How to Ward Off Cholera.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Consul Mason's report on the cholera touches upon the problems of caring for cholera on shipboard, in barracks, asylums, prisons, etc., as exemplified at Marseilles. At Marseilles there was a practical exemption from the disease, attributed to an acquired army regimen.

Including wearing a broad belt or girdle of flannel to protect the stomach and bowels from sudden chill; white linen or cotton "haverlocks" to be worn during all outdoor exercise, absolute interdiction of green fruits, and the use of rice in all soups. One quart of wine daily to each man, variation of food as often as practicable, suspension of military exercises, walk for exercise from 6 to 7:30 a. m., each alternate day.

MUSIC, ROSSING AND EXERCISE.
In the barracks yard, frequent washing rooms, and a hall with a solution of phenic acid; stewards required to have constantly ready tea, sugar and rum, to be administered immediately in all cases of cholera, also liquor of "Batavia," to be given (twenty drops in a quart of water) upon the appearance of choleric symptoms.

Mason then proceeds to give an outline of what to eat and what to avoid. Marseilles prohibited the entry into the city of MELONS, CUCUMBERS AND SUMMER FRUIT. Instructions issued to the public were to avoid all excess, to drink as little as possible between meals, eat beef and mutton and avoid the body from sudden chills, and use food taken in is not stale. Daily tepid baths, followed by vigorous rubbing, are recommended. Mason says there is nothing more perilous than for persons who have once left the infected atmosphere to return to it before the pestilence is completely suppressed. He continues:

NO PERSON SHOULD RETURN TO AN INFECTED CITY.
Unless in a condition of good health, particularly in respect to all functions of nutrition. Persons so returning should stop at least forty-eight hours in the suburbs or other locality as near as possible to the infected city. He says in the face of the cholera epidemic that diarrhoea is a serious illness, and should be treated accordingly. He also says: As a popular remedy for immediate use, nothing has been found superior to chlorodyne, sold by most druggists.

WORSE THAN THE CHOLERA.
LONDON, July 10.—A mysterious epidemic has broken out in this city and various other parts of Portugal. The victims are attacked without warning, and die within a few minutes after seizure. The disease is a mystery to the doctors, who as yet have found no effective method of combating it.

NO CHOLERA IN FRANCE.
TOULOUSE, July 10.—The Prefect, after inquiry, has found no case of cholera in the Department of Aude.

THE NUMBER OF DEATHS YESTERDAY.
MADRID, July 10.—The total number of cases of cholera reported from all parts of Spain yesterday was 1,459, and of deaths 680. It is now hoped that Madrid will escape the scourge, as the disease is rapidly decreasing at Aranjuez.

SETTLING THE "BOOMERS."

Senator Morgan Wants All the Indians Concentrated in Indian Territory.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Post will publish to-morrow an extended interview with Senator Morgan, who has recently returned from a visit of observation in Indian Territory in company with Senators Dawes, Ingalls, Jones, of Arkansas, and Morey, his colleague in the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs. The most interesting portion of the interview is that referring to:

THE OKLAHOMA QUESTION.
And upon this subject the Senator expressed himself as follows:
This Oklahoma question is up and wants to be settled. The negroes for whom that tract of land in the heart of Indian Territory was purchased, don't seem at all anxious or even willing to settle on it. They prefer to live on portions of land belonging to the Indian tribes, where they were before emancipation, and where they are at present located, but I think the Committee will not be in favor of the letter of the Oklahoma "boomers" to seize and monopolize it. I cannot see positively through for the committee have not had a full conference on the subject, and will not until the Senate meets, when they will hold a conference and report to the Senate the results of their observations and deliberations. I would put the Indians on all that territory. There is, to be sure, more land than the Indians require, but I would encourage.

CONCENTRATION OF ALL THE INDIANS.
I would even make it an advantage for tribes now located in the State of New York, and scattered over the continent, to migrate to this Territory, where they could have the benefit of the good example of the five civilized tribes. I am not in favor of having the Indian Oklahoma "boomers" divide the Indian country.

Mexican Territory Is Not for Sale.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—A. K. Coney, ex-Mexican Consul at this city, in an interview on the subject of selling Mexican territory to the United States, stated that the published reports on the matter were without significance, as the Mexican administration would not dare, in opposition to the prevailing public sentiment on the project, to sell any portion of Mexican territory. It is further stated that there exists a prohibition in the Mexican Constitution against the sale or dismemberment of any portion of the republic.

The Burning of Wheat Fields in New York.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 10.—The Hessian fly has made great devastation in the wheat fields of various towns in Wayne county. In Arcadia the loss is estimated at $20,000. In the immediate vicinity of Lyons the loss is estimated by careful observation at $70,000. In some places the farmers are burning their wheat fields in order to exterminate the insects as far as possible.

The Apaches in Mexico.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—Guaymas, Mexico, advises say the Apaches are raiding Northeastern Sonora. Strong expressions are made in military circles against the United States troops crossing the border.

A Lumber Blaze in "Frisco."
SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—Fire to-night destroyed the lumber yards of White Brothers and Allen Tuggle & Co., on Spear street, between Market and Mission streets. Losses, $70,000.

A Novel Idea in Washington.

THE STORM AT MCGREGOR.

Grant Sleeps Soundly Through the Night—A False Report.

MONTGOMERY, July 10.—Soon after 11 o'clock last night General Grant was asleep. At 3 o'clock this morning the rain fell in torrents, with thunder and lightning. The general slept through the storm until 4 o'clock, when Dr. Douglas awakened him to give him food and treatment. "It has been raining very heavily," remarked the physician to the general, as the latter was taking nourishment. The patient glanced up in some surprise, but upon again being assured of the fact, he wrote to the doctor: "You must have been dreaming! I heard no rain, and I have been here all the time."

From 4 o'clock until nearly 7 o'clock this morning the sick man slept, and this morning has been passed by him in his room. His pulse is of fair volume at 80, but not so good as it had been up to three days ago. The doctor believes the patient has not yet recovered the strength lost on Wednesday afternoon. The statements made in the Boston and Chicago papers that Mr. Grant was sharing with Mark Twain in the proceeds of the bust of General Grant have pained the general's family. They are flatly contradicted by Karl Gerhardt, the sculptor, who this morning was called at the Grant cottage.

An Old Man's Crime—Twenty Years New York, July 10.—William H. Padeny, the gray-haired, gray-bearded sexton of St. George's Church, convicted of assaulting Eva A. M. Michael and Lizzie S. Schneider, each about 10 years old, was sentenced to twenty years in the State prison to-day by Judge Cowing, in the Court of General Sessions. Hardly had the judge finished when Padeny sank to the floor in a senseless heap. He was carried into the rear of the court room, where he was attended to. He was then taken to the Chambers Street hospital in a very weak condition.

Outbreak Feared from the Strikers.
CHICAGO, July 10.—Advisers from the Fourteenth and Eighteenth wards show everything quiet in those localities, and it is supposed that no further public parades will be attempted, though a meeting of strikers is called for this afternoon. It is rumored that an attempt will be made to march to the city hall on Monday next. Should this be done, it is not impossible that trouble will ensue. Pay day is next week, Wednesday, when an outbreak is feared. The disposition of the police force and the military organizations remain the same as yesterday.

The Garfield Statue Ready to be Erected.
COLUMBUS, July 10.—The Garfield Statute Commission to-day accepted the report of the committee which examined the statue in Washington and accepted the same. It has been decided to erect from the pedestal the letters "James A." and give only the word "Garfield" in large letters thereon. Governor Hoadley will present the statue to Congress by letter, and it will be unveiled immediately, without any formality.

Struck by a Tornado.
SCIENTEADY, N. Y., July 10.—The village of Aqueduct, on the Mohawk, where the Erie canal crosses the Mohawk river, was struck by a tornado yesterday afternoon. Orchards were uprooted, barns demolished and chimneys blown down. The loss of property is estimated at thousands of dollars. The storm swept a straight track two miles long, and uniformed fifty feet wide, through the towns of Glenville and Kiskadee.

Mrs. Secretary Bayard Alarmingly Sick.
WASHINGTON, July 10.—Up to last night Mrs. Secretary Bayard seemed to improve slightly, but early this morning her illness took an unfavorable turn and her physicians have now abandoned hope. Fears are entertained that she may not live through the day.

Yellow Jack Reported in New Orleans.
WASHINGTON, July 10.—Dr. Hamilton, of the Marine Hospital service, says there is a report in circulation that there are a number of cases of yellow fever in New Orleans. He has no recommendation for action in regard to the matter as yet, but is now investigating.

The New Brigadier-General.
WASHINGTON, July 10.—The President has appointed Colonel John Gibbon, of the Seventh Infantry, to be Brigadier-General of the Army, vice General C. C. Angur, retired to-day.

The Assistance He Needed.
"Philander," a said a pretty girl to her bashful beau, "I wish you'd tie this ribbon at my throat; I can't see how to do it without a glass."
"Of course, I'll be only too glad to," he said, and at once grasped the strings.
After an unsuccessful effort of five minutes, during which he got as red as a brick house, and perspired like a pitcher of ice water on a July window sill, he stammered:
"I—I—I—don't think I can tie a respectable knot, Miss Mary."

"Suppose, Philander," she whispered with a pretty little blush, "suppose you call in a preacher to assist."
Like the unveiling of a beautiful mystery, the situation unfolded itself to Philander, and he feels better now.—Merchant Traveler.

Boston Culture in the Wild West.
A Boston man rather crippled the frontier notion the other night at the Columbia theater. He went accompanied by two ladies. At the end of the first act he went out and passed into an adjacent saloon. He drank his glass of beer and bought a cigar. He started into the foyer with the beverage and was stopped at the door, of course. He was given to understand that the Columbia was not a beer garden. He returned and offered the man at the door one of the glasses, which was refused. He drank off both himself, put the glasses down on the floor, wiped his lips, passed in, made his apology to the ladies, and sat through the play.—Chicago Herald.

Their Proper Sphere.
Mr. Dusenberry—Here's another article upon allowing the woman to vote. It's all stuff.
Mrs. Dusenberry—Why shouldn't woman vote, I should like to know.
"Oh, not that you are inferior, my dear; but until you get into your proper sphere."
"Pray, what is our proper sphere?"
"Well, not this sphere. Some other sphere."

A SENSATION OF SHAME

Excited Crowds Gather Around the Office of the "Fall Mail Gazette."

A Proposition of the Proprietors to Submit the Names and Details to a Disinterested Committee.

Discussion of the Expose in the House of Commons To-day.

Still Arresting "Gazette" Vendors.
LONDON, July 10.—The police continue to arrest all vendors found selling copies of any of the past four days' issues of the Fall Mail Gazette.

LONDON, July 10.—The excitement over the Fall Mail Gazette's revelations continues without abatement. The windows and doorways of the Gazette's publication office are barricaded, and the police are in control of the surrounding streets. The Gazette says it receives every day numbers of:

CABLEGRAMS FROM THE UNITED STATES.
Asking about the progress of the exposures. Cardinal Manning has accepted a proposition made by the proprietors of the Fall Mail Gazette to submit a complete report of all its revelations.

INCLUDING EVERY NAME AND DETAIL.
To a party of responsible men, to include the Cardinal and Hon. Samuel Morley, the examination of the House of Commons is expected to be held on the subject of the Fall Mail Gazette revelations.

LONDON, July 10.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Grey, the Liberal member for South Northumberland, in accordance with his notice of yesterday, asked Cross, the Home Secretary, whether he could assure the House that the government had given orders to the police to do their utmost to suppress the abominations in London revealed by the Fall Mail Gazette. The Home Secretary replied that the police would be kept on the alert to suppress the alleged practices existing. The law supplemented by the criminal law amendment bill would suffice to bring to justice the perpetrators of such abominations.

Arrest of Boston Anarchists.
BOSTON, July 10.—The arrest here yesterday of fifteen Anarchists was brought about by the contents of some documents found by the police during a domiciliary visit. The visit was made to ascertain the character of the establishment which had started the publication of a new nihilist paper, called Neither Nor Master. Evidence was found that the paper was in the interest of an organization having as its object the assassination of several sovereigns, and the reported arrests were at once made. Further investigation having proven the innocence of some of the prisoners, they were discharged to-day. Others are still held on a charge of vagrancy. The nihilists will hold an indignation meeting next Sunday to protest against the summary action of the police.

A French Move to Annex Annam.
PARIS, July 10.—The Ministry is being strongly urged to annex Annam. The pressure in this direction is almost irresistible, and it requires all of De Freycinet's skill to prevent his colleagues from acting precipitately in the matter.

He is adverse to any steps that might revive the question of French intervention in the Franco-Chinese troubles. It is reported here that the Black Flags will reinforce the Annamites in any contest the latter may decide to wage against the French.

Glad to Give Amnesty, Too.
PARIS, July 10.—A dispatch to the government from Hue, the capital of Annam, arrived to-day, says General De Courcy has issued a manifesto to the effect that with the exception of a few of the ringleaders who planned the recent attack upon French troops at Hue, all those rebels who surrendered within twelve days will be granted a general amnesty. The Annamite troops at Hue and the French troops at Hue have been ordered to withdraw their arms to General De Courcy.

Don't Want a Revolution Just Now.
PARIS, July 10.—Senator Zorilla, Spanish revolutionary, in a public letter denies that he is engaged in fomenting or aiding revolutionary movements in Spain. He declares that as the kingdom is now being devastated by cholera it is not a proper time to attempt the restoration of the Spanish Republic. Even if the attempt were made, Senor Zorilla says it could not in such a crisis have any chance of success.

The Tories Go Back on Parnell.
LONDON, July 10.—The Government, after much meditation, has decided that it cannot support Mr. Parnell's motion in the inquiry into the conduct of the officials in the Maudsland and Barrow cases. This decision will probably result in the Parnellites withdrawing the support which they have hitherto given the present government.

Playing Ten Pins With Kings.
LONDON, July 10.—A dispatch from Paris states that the French government has authorized General De Courcy to dispose of the present King of Annam if he refuses to submit to the French authority, and to place on the throne in his stead the head of another branch of the reigning family.

The Chesterfield Stakes Yesterday.
LONDON, July 10.—The race for the Chesterfield stakes for 2-year-olds was run yesterday at the Newmarket July meeting, and was won by the Duke of Poilard's bay filly, Motivana; R. H. Coombe's brown colt Volia was second, and Lord Hallion's brown filly Storm Light third. There were nine starters.

An Underground Railway in Paris.
PARIS, July 10.—The government has decided to build a metropolitan railway underground. An extra credit of 101,500 francs has been asked for on account of Hugo's funeral.

Heavy Floods.
VIENNA, July 10.—Serious floods are reported in Galicia. The Vistula river has risen ten feet, swamping a large portion of the city of Cracow and the town of Khavina. Many miles of railways have been destroyed.

Charley Crow Wasn't Around, Either.
DUBLIN, July 10.—During the band performance to-day at Black Rock, the British flag was hoisted down and the green flag hoisted in its place.

In a Storm Off the Cape.
LONDON, July 10.—The bark "Barracotta," at Queenstown, from Portland, Oregon, encountered a gale when off Cape Horn. One of her hatchways stove and she was compelled to jettison 600 bags of wheat.

Bankrupt Egypt.
CAIRO, July 10.—It is stated that, unless action be taken by the 1st of September, Egypt will be completely bankrupt.

A Free Trade Minister.
BRUSSELS, July 10.—The Belgian Minister of Finance opposes the proposed import duties on cattle and corn.

The Lucky Seventh Child.
PARIS, July 10.—The Chamber of Deputies

this afternoon voted an appropriation of $800,000 to be expended by the State in maintaining and educating every seventh child born in a French family. This action is taken to revive an obsolete law enacted during the French Revolution in the interest of an increase in French population. The present enactment applied to either sex, and is confined to children of parents in needy circumstances. An attempt to reject this law by a vote of 290 to 127.

ALFA NORMAN'S UNDRESS SCENE.
How the New Prima Donna Undresses Herself in "Fra Diavolo."

I suppose, writes Clara Belle, nearly all women have some time or other experienced a sense of the difficulty there is in undressing gracefully. It is more or less of a study. How nicely, how exquisitely, indeed, it can be done even in public (and fancy just for one moment the difference) has been illustrated here at the Fifth Avenue theater by Alfa Norman, the new American prima donna. She had to do it nightly before crowded audiences in the character of Zerlina, the peasant heroine of Alfieri's never-dull opera of "Fra Diavolo." Alfieri and these costumes have been discussed on the stage. They have tried to be as demure and conservative as possible, but it was a failure. Some jacket or breaker or veil betrayed them, and was always the object of trying to be a lady. The men liked it the women disliked it. There was too much suggestiveness. Lucien, the prima donna, tried to make this very scene in "Fra Diavolo" vulgar, and heavy, too. It was just a trifle nasty. Alfieri, who she was young and had not grown to three hundred pounds, was to stand in front of her mirror with all these riches on her.

For a servant there's no dressing! Here's a show that's not much missed. The shape was unmissable, because it was so simple. And so Kellie used to show as little as possible, and by unmissable button in her dress the whole thing dropped to the floor and then display nothing but a grip undress. And of this scene Alfa Norman makes the principal one of the opera. She elaborates it to the uttermost of the music, and all with an unconscious air of innocence that makes the women in the audience clap their gloves and hands in an ecstasy of astonishment. Only a beautiful woman could do this, and Alfa Norman has not alone a pretty and mobile face, but one of the most beautiful forms that ever was seen upon the stage. She pretends to be no more than the peasant girl which she is in the opera. Her clothes are simple, neat and quietly fitting. While she is singing, she removes the pins from her Italian headress and the apron, and then she gradually unfolds the folds of her bodice. This one off and it is gone. She is now on the chair at her side. The waiting proceeds, and the hand about her waist is done, and she steps out of her skirt for all the world like a young girl at her mirror. The audience begins to wonder where all this will end, and, perhaps, some of the ladies in the audience become a little nervous. But this is not all, for there is still sort of Italian underlaid of white muslin to remove. It takes some time, for there are buttons and laces to be without end. The audience hold their breath until she comes off, but it reveals shoulders and arms that would make the glory of any woman. By the time she is done, Zerlina is a species of Princess chemise, all in white—not the slightest bit of lace or furbel—just what a peasant girl would have. Vol. with this is not much slighted, and she sees in any ball-room. The songs, the motion, the apparent innocence of the whole proceeding, have made the audience forget how risky a piece of business it is, and they rapturously applaud the achievement when they realize how sweetly it has all been done. I should imagine that it took the highest part of histrionic gift to carry out such a scene successfully, and then add to it a voice of the purest and finest quality and you have a picture that has made all New York run to see it. Alfa Norman has made herself a pet with the women here, and that is the best alliance she could have. I am sure that these genuine French peasant girls of her own sex where she gets one from any man, and I think it did it all for her. I can say that she is not quite so fancy as much innocence. Perhaps they prefer the vulgarity of Lucien or the suggestiveness of Alfieri.

A Broad and Liberal Toucher.
Cleveland is as good a Democrat as you or I—as good a Democrat as there is in the country. His idea is to put the Democratic party on a high basis. There has been a consistency in his course which is apparent to close students who have access to the facts. All his appointments, while they have been made with reference to fitness and good government, have been made with the idea of strengthening the party. No statesman ever had a more clearly defined policy, and he is absolutely inflexible in following it. A Democrat called on him recently and told him how we were all pleased with them. Cleveland modestly replied: "I hope you can say that three years hence." Mr. Cleveland is approachable and unassuming. There is no affectation about him. But when he gets through talking with you, you rarely appreciate that it is to him, in fact, as he is strong minded.

"Not in the sense of taking the lead in any departure from the established status of her sex. She is a sensible and charming woman. She is of medium size and good looking."

"Is it true that she is a Republican?"
"Not in the sense of taking the lead in any departure from the established status of her sex. She is a sensible and charming woman. She is of medium size and good looking."

"Oh, no," said the Senator, smiling. "That was an absurd report which annoyed her, but she would not deny it, because she declared that her position in the White House had nothing to do with politics."—Interview with Sen. Cocke.

He Distinguished Himself.
"I understand that you quite distinguished yourself, Brown, at the bubble party, given by Mrs. B. last week."
"Yes, I was feeling right as a trivet that night, my boy, and when I feel pretty fit I fancy I can make myself a rather agreeable dog, y'know. Er—what did you hear, chimney?"
"I hear that you blew the biggest bubble of the evening?"—Good Cheer.
